

Which intervention moves outcomes more?

Spread of outcomes across intervention values, on a common scale

China factor relative to media, by wave

Above the dashed line, the China factor moves DPP share more than media does

The three waves span three levels of cross–Strait threat salience: post–Sunflower (2016), the Hong Kong shock (2020), and normalization with a third force bracketing the China question (2024). Tsai trailed Han by up to twenty–five points in early 2019 before winning a record 57.1 percent. Media effects should compress in 2020, when an exogenous shock dominated the choice environment, while China–factor effects should peak.